

Society

CONTINUED FROM PAGE FIVE.

otherwise "the Jersey Lily." Born in Quebec when his fine old father, Col. E. D. Malcolm, a gallant Crimean veteran, commanded the Royal Engineers there, it cannot be in the natural course of events he long before he succeeds his aged father in the family honors and entails estates.

The honors comprise the chieftaincy of the great Scottish clan of Malcolm and the lordship of Pottaloch, while the entails extend over an area of some 120,000 acres, situated for the most part in Argyllshire, including the castle of Pottaloch. The clan has been seated in that county since the dawn of Scottish history.

A junior branch of the family has a baronetcy created by Charles II in 1685 and now held by Capt. Sir John Malcolm, who was one of the divisional heads of the ministry of munitions during the war. He has, however, no property in Scotland, his only land and home being in Suffolk.

The Malcolms have played a notable role in British history, and one of them, Gen. Sir John Malcolm, who won fame as a commander in the field and as a special ambassador to Persia, where, curiously enough, many families of the native aristocracy bear his name. Malcolm was accorded the honor of burial in Westminster Abbey, where he is commemorated by a splendid monument.

ENJOYS RARE DISTINCTION. Sir Ian Malcolm enjoys the unique distinction of having had his well-shaped legs made the subject of official correspondence between the governments of Great Britain, of Germany and of Russia before the war. While attached to the British Embassy at Berlin in 1892 he attended on one occasion a court ball in the picturesque Highland garb of his clan. The German Emperor took exception to the young Scotchman's bare knees, and on the following day Gen. Count Augustus Eulenburg, in his capacity of grand master of the court, addressed an official letter to the then British Ambassador, Sir Frank Lascelles, father of Lady Spring-Rice, intimating that their majesties did not wish Mr. Malcolm to appear at any court function with bare knees.

"This did not prevent the emperor himself from subsequently appearing at a banquet at the British embassy bare-kneed, in full Highland costume, wearing a kilt of the royal Stuart tartan, on the strength of his descent through his English mother, the late Empress Frederick, from King James I of Great Britain. From the British Embassy the Kaiser proceeded, in his Highland trappings, to the opera where "Lucia di Lammermoor," the opera based on Sir Walter Scott's Highland romance, was being given. The Kaiser thought it appropriate to wear Scottish costume when a Scottish romance was being represented on the operatic stage, and it was this historic episode, for always dressing up to the part, that led his son, the crown prince, to the death of his mother, to him that he should don a uniform of grand admiral of the ever-dreaded German navy when visiting the Aquarium at Berlin.

"Some years after this episode Ian Malcolm, being appointed as a member of the special embassy to the coronation at Moscow of Nicholas II, took the wise precaution of having an official letter addressed to the Russian government inquiring whether there would be any objection to his kilt at the coronation festivities."

Here is a bit of gossip of interest from "Cherry Knickerbocker," a new writer from New York.

EDSON BRADLEY'S ARE DINNER HOSTS. The Edson Bradleys gave a delightful dinner party last evening at their apartment, No. 938 Fifth avenue, in honor of the Belgian Ambassador and the Baroness E. Cartier de Marchienne, and it goes without saying the guests were pulled from a very, very swaggy coterie.

"I know of no more charming a hostess than Mrs. Bradley, and when I learned at her dinner party last evening that she will be in the midst throughout the entire season, I was indeed delighted. Metropolitan society is badly in need of a number of hostesses like Mrs. Bradley—hostesses who give 'different' entertainments."

"In former years Mrs. Bradley has divided her time between her palatial residence in Washington and her apartment in this city. This winter she has decided not to occupy the Washington house, which, on dit, has one of the most gorgeous ballrooms it has ever been my good fortune to see, and will remain in the metropolis."

"Mrs. Bradley, as you all know, is Julie Shipman's (Mrs. Herbert Shipman) mother, and Julie is delighted that Mrs. Bradley will be so near her. Later in the season Mrs. Shipman will be the guest of honor at several parties which her parents will give."

To return to last evening's dinner party, it was a triumph for the Baroness. In fact, her whole life these days seems to be one long triumph. There was a time, when she was Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Carey, and before that Mrs. Frost, that society adopted a rather offish attitude toward the beautiful matron who now bears a title and is one of the most important personages in the diplomatic world at Washington.

At the reception which Mrs. Bradley gave last evening several weeks ago in honor of Her Majesty, the Queen of the Belgians, many social leaders who formerly overlooked the baroness were forced to grovel before her, so to speak. Let it be said to the Baroness's credit that her triumph over the snobbish New York-Newport set has not changed her one iota. She is just as unaffected today as when she was living quietly at Newport and not attempting, as the tables said, "to scale the social barriers" at the Rhode Island watering place. Mrs. Bradley's dinner party was the beginning of a series of such events which will be given by New York hostesses in honor of the baroness.

The baroness has certainly attained the apex of the "social ladder."

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will head the list of patronesses at the annual ball on Wednesday evening of the Navy Relief Society, which includes the wives of Cabinet members and of prominent naval officers. The list follows:

Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. Newton D. Baker, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, Mrs. David F. Houston, Mrs. Mitchell Palmer, Mrs. Truman Newberry, Mrs. William H. Brownson, Mrs. F. L. Chapin, Mrs. Richard Harlow, Mrs. Robert Coates, Mrs. Julian James, Mrs. E. H. Dunningham, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Charles C. Glover, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Robert F. Thompson, Mrs. James B. Hartman, Mrs. Henry T. Mayo, Mrs. Ralph Earle, Mrs. George R. Clark, Mrs. W. C. Braisted, Mrs. Thomas Washington, Mrs. C. W. Parker, Mrs. D. W. Taylor, Mrs. R. E. Griffin, Mrs. George Barnett and Mrs. Albert Grant.

Among the box holders at the Thanksgiving ball, which will take place on the night of Thanksgiving, not Thanksgiving eve, will be Secretary of War Baker and Mrs. Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Mrs. Daniels, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Admiral and Mrs. Henry P. Mayo, Mrs. I. C. Copley, Mrs. Marshall Field, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Julian James, Mrs. Truman Newberry, Col. Robert M. Thompson, Mrs. William H. Brownson, Col. W. Eric Fowler, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. J. Berger Moran, Mrs. E. J. Dorn, Mrs. Z. L. Tanner, Mrs. J. O. Nicholson, Mrs. George A. Mesta, Mrs. George Barnett in chairman of the committee in charge of boxes and will also have a box herself. Mrs. Tanner is selling the tickets for the ball.

At the annual meeting and ingathering of garments of the District of Columbia branch of the Needlework Guild of America held last week in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church nearly 400 garments were received, a gain of six or seven hundred over last year, which meant that county of Suffolk. The Malcolms played a very great role in British history, and one of them, Gen. Sir John Malcolm, who won fame as a commander in war and as a special ambassador to Persia, was ultimately accorded the honor of a state funeral in Westminster Abbey, where a splendid monument commemorates his name.

The official announcement that Sir Ian had obtained the stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds and had been in consequence thereof obliged to resign his seat in parliament for Crofton, which he had held for the last ten years, requires a little explanation. Strictly speaking, a member of parliament cannot resign or throw up his job.

According to the law, the only way in which he can escape from its obligations is by accepting an "office of profit and emolument" in the service of the crown. There is some question as to whether the chief British clerkship of the Suez Canal can be included under this head, so Sir Ian applied to the crown for the office of steward of the honor of the Chiltern Hundreds, which carries with it a salary of about $5 a year and is only kept up for the purpose of enabling members of parliament to rapidly disqualify themselves.

IAN MALCOLM WAS KNIGHTED. At the time Ian Malcolm was knighted a few months ago, the Marquis de Fontenay wrote the following interesting article:

"All those who recall the tall and stalwart Ian Malcolm, conservative member of Parliament for the Crofton division in London, will be accompanied Arthur Balfour on the occasion of his special mission to the United States in 1917 and who has again been acting as that statesman's private secretary at the Peace Conference at Paris, will be glad to know that he has just received from King George the star of a knight commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, which gives him a handle to his name. From now on he will be Sir Ian Malcolm, and his wife, Jeanne, the only child of Lady de Batho (Lily Langtry), becomes Lady Malcolm."

Sir Ian, who received in 1916 from Nicholas II the honorary rank of major general in the Muscovite army in recognition of his Red Cross work in Russia during the first two years of the war, is a native of Quebec, having been born there while his father was stationed there as the commanding officer of royal engineers. It is, however, from his father's brother, the late Lord Malcolm, of Pottaloch, married to the widowed Mrs. H. Gardner Lister of New York, that he has inherited the chieftaincy of the clan of Malcolm, as well as the great landed possessions connected therewith, including the castle of Pottaloch. The property, extending over an area of some 20,000 acres, is situated in Argyllshire. In fact, north of the Tweed Ian Malcolm is known either as "Pottaloch" or else as "The MacCallum."

"The clan has been established in Argyllshire since the dawn of Scottish history, and was flourishing in the reign of David II and Robert II, as shown by contemporary official records still in existence. A junior branch of the house has a baronetcy created by Charles II in 1685, now held by Capt. Sir John Malcolm, who was one of the divisional heads of the ministry of munitions during the war. He has, however, no property in Scotland, his only land and home being in Suffolk.

The Malcolms have played a notable role in British history, and one of them, Gen. Sir John Malcolm, who won fame as a commander in the field and as a special ambassador to Persia, where, curiously enough, many families of the native aristocracy bear his name. Malcolm was accorded the honor of burial in Westminster Abbey, where he is commemorated by a splendid monument.

ENJOYS RARE DISTINCTION. Sir Ian Malcolm enjoys the unique distinction of having had his well-shaped legs made the subject of official correspondence between the governments of Great Britain, of Germany and of Russia before the war. While attached to the British Embassy at Berlin in 1892 he attended on one occasion a court ball in the picturesque Highland garb of his clan. The German Emperor took exception to the young Scotchman's bare knees, and on the following day Gen. Count Augustus Eulenburg, in his capacity of grand master of the court, addressed an official letter to the then British Ambassador, Sir Frank Lascelles, father of Lady Spring-Rice, intimating that their majesties did not wish Mr. Malcolm to appear at any court function with bare knees.

"This did not prevent the emperor himself from subsequently appearing at a banquet at the British embassy bare-kneed, in full Highland costume, wearing a kilt of the royal Stuart tartan, on the strength of his descent through his English mother, the late Empress Frederick, from King James I of Great Britain. From the British Embassy the Kaiser proceeded, in his Highland trappings, to the opera where "Lucia di Lammermoor," the opera based on Sir Walter Scott's Highland romance, was being given. The Kaiser thought it appropriate to wear Scottish costume when a Scottish romance was being represented on the operatic stage, and it was this historic episode, for always dressing up to the part, that led his son, the crown prince, to the death of his mother, to him that he should don a uniform of grand admiral of the ever-dreaded German navy when visiting the Aquarium at Berlin.

"Some years after this episode Ian Malcolm, being appointed as a member of the special embassy to the coronation at Moscow of Nicholas II, took the wise precaution of having an official letter addressed to the Russian government inquiring whether there would be any objection to his kilt at the coronation festivities."

Here is a bit of gossip of interest from "Cherry Knickerbocker," a new writer from New York.

EDSON BRADLEY'S ARE DINNER HOSTS. The Edson Bradleys gave a delightful dinner party last evening at their apartment, No. 938 Fifth avenue, in honor of the Belgian Ambassador and the Baroness E. Cartier de Marchienne, and it goes without saying the guests were pulled from a very, very swaggy coterie.

"I know of no more charming a hostess than Mrs. Bradley, and when I learned at her dinner party last evening that she will be in the midst throughout the entire season, I was indeed delighted. Metropolitan society is badly in need of a number of hostesses like Mrs. Bradley—hostesses who give 'different' entertainments."

"In former years Mrs. Bradley has divided her time between her palatial residence in Washington and her apartment in this city. This winter she has decided not to occupy the Washington house, which, on dit, has one of the most gorgeous ballrooms it has ever been my good fortune to see, and will remain in the metropolis."

"Mrs. Bradley, as you all know, is Julie Shipman's (Mrs. Herbert Shipman) mother, and Julie is delighted that Mrs. Bradley will be so near her. Later in the season Mrs. Shipman will be the guest of honor at several parties which her parents will give."

To return to last evening's dinner party, it was a triumph for the Baroness. In fact, her whole life these days seems to be one long triumph. There was a time, when she was Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Carey, and before that Mrs. Frost, that society adopted a rather offish attitude toward the beautiful matron who now bears a title and is one of the most important personages in the diplomatic world at Washington.

At the reception which Mrs. Bradley gave last evening several weeks ago in honor of Her Majesty, the Queen of the Belgians, many social leaders who formerly overlooked the baroness were forced to grovel before her, so to speak. Let it be said to the Baroness's credit that her triumph over the snobbish New York-Newport set has not changed her one iota. She is just as unaffected today as when she was living quietly at Newport and not attempting, as the tables said, "to scale the social barriers" at the Rhode Island watering place. Mrs. Bradley's dinner party was the beginning of a series of such events which will be given by New York hostesses in honor of the baroness.

The baroness has certainly attained the apex of the "social ladder."

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will head the list of patronesses at the annual ball on Wednesday evening of the Navy Relief Society, which includes the wives of Cabinet members and of prominent naval officers. The list follows:

Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. Newton D. Baker, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, Mrs. David F. Houston, Mrs. Mitchell Palmer, Mrs. Truman Newberry, Mrs. William H. Brownson, Mrs. F. L. Chapin, Mrs. Richard Harlow, Mrs. Robert Coates, Mrs. Julian James, Mrs. E. H. Dunningham, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Charles C. Glover, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Robert F. Thompson, Mrs. James B. Hartman, Mrs. Henry T. Mayo, Mrs. Ralph Earle, Mrs. George R. Clark, Mrs. W. C. Braisted, Mrs. Thomas Washington, Mrs. C. W. Parker, Mrs. D. W. Taylor, Mrs. R. E. Griffin, Mrs. George Barnett and Mrs. Albert Grant.

Among the box holders at the Thanksgiving ball, which will take place on the night of Thanksgiving, not Thanksgiving eve, will be Secretary of War Baker and Mrs. Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Mrs. Daniels, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Admiral and Mrs. Henry P. Mayo, Mrs. I. C. Copley, Mrs. Marshall Field, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Julian James, Mrs. Truman Newberry, Col. Robert M. Thompson, Mrs. William H. Brownson, Col. W. Eric Fowler, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. J. Berger Moran, Mrs. E. J. Dorn, Mrs. Z. L. Tanner, Mrs. J. O. Nicholson, Mrs. George A. Mesta, Mrs. George Barnett in chairman of the committee in charge of boxes and will also have a box herself. Mrs. Tanner is selling the tickets for the ball.

At the annual meeting and ingathering of garments of the District of Columbia branch of the Needlework Guild of America held last week in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church nearly 400 garments were received, a gain of six or seven hundred over last year, which meant that every institution receiving aid was sent more than 100 garments. Thirty charities were helped, besides a number of private cases.

Princess Casimir Lubomirski, wife of the first Polish Minister to the United States.

Miss Eleanor G. DuPuy, the retiring president, under whose direct care the last five years the Guild has made great progress, presided. Mrs. Larz Anderson, the honorary president, and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry, the National president, were with her on the platform. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the church, gave the Guild a cordial greeting, and Mrs. Whitman Cross spoke of the work of the Washington Asylum Hospital.

Mrs. G. Thomas Dunlop was elected president, and Mrs. Chester D. Swape to succeed her as treasurer. Mrs. Reece Lewis was elected secretary to succeed Mrs. Richard B. Watrous, the splendid secretary during many years, who has moved to New York. Miss Eloise Sargent was elected assistant secretary. The vice presidents, Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, Miss Anna B. Abbott, Miss Mabel T. Boardman and Mrs. A. E. Hassan are unchanged.

The Guild is now holding meetings every Friday morning at the Church of the Covenant to sew for St. Quentin, the adopted city of the National Needlework Guild.

The card party given by the Beaurgard Chapter U. D. C. for the benefit of the Confederate Memorial Home on Vermont avenue, promises to be a great success.

On Friday evening, November 23, the Robert E. Lee Chapter No. 64, United Daughters of the Confederacy will give its regular monthly dance at the New Willard. This is the second dance of the season and is expected to be one of the largest. Mrs. Jesse Lee Webb will head the committee in charge of the program. The floor committee, appointed for the first dance will officiate throughout the season. These dances are very popular and every effort will be made by the president, Mrs. Walter E. Hutton, and her committee to make these dances most enjoyable.

The regular meeting of Robert E. Lee Chapter will be held at Confederate Memorial Home, 1222 Vermont avenue, Tuesday evening, November 26, at 8 o'clock. After the business meeting the chapter will be addressed by Mr. Lucien C. Uphaw, of Georgia, and a musical program will follow. All members are requested to attend, as there will be quite a number of new members to welcome into the chapter.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Baker was the scene of a beautiful wedding when their only daughter, Florence Love, became the bride of William H. Lawson, son of E. A. M. Lawson.

The bride was attired in her mother's wedding dress of cream tulle and wore a veil held by a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Her attendants were Miss Eva the Robert E. Lee Chapter No. 64, United Daughters of the Confederacy will give its regular monthly dance at the New Willard. This is the second dance of the season and is expected to be one of the largest. Mrs. Jesse Lee Webb will head the committee in charge of the program. The floor committee, appointed for the first dance will officiate throughout the season. These dances are very popular and every effort will be made by the president, Mrs. Walter E. Hutton, and her committee to make these dances most enjoyable.

The regular meeting of Robert E. Lee Chapter will be held at Confederate Memorial Home, 1222 Vermont avenue, Tuesday evening, November 26, at 8 o'clock. After the business meeting the chapter will be addressed by Mr. Lucien C. Uphaw, of Georgia, and a musical program will follow. All members are requested to attend, as there will be quite a number of new members to welcome into the chapter.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Baker was the scene of a beautiful wedding when their only daughter, Florence Love, became the bride of William H. Lawson, son of E. A. M. Lawson.

The bride was attired in her mother's wedding dress of cream tulle and wore a veil held by a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Her attendants were Miss Eva

The card party given by the Beaurgard Chapter U. D. C. for the benefit of the Confederate Memorial Home on Vermont avenue, promises to be a great success.

On Friday evening, November 23,

Baker, maid of honor, and Miss Marie Strudley and her brother, William Barker, Fred Devine of London, England, was best man.

Miss Marie Strudley sang O Promise Me, and Miss Ben Tagler played the wedding march. After the reception the couple left for Palm Beach, Fla.

Clifford Whyte, A. D. Jamison and Russell Whyte left Friday to attend the Lehigh-Lafayette football game.

The first annual War Risk Ball was held last night in the large and small ball rooms of the New Willard Hotel and was given for the benefit of the War Risk Fund.

Among the guests of honor were forty Walter Reed boys. The chairman of the Floor Committee who was Mr. J. J. Lightfoot of the War Risk Bureau, had the assistance of eleven members of the bureau staff.

The arrangement committee consisted of Mrs. Harriet Putnam, Mrs. Charlotte E. Hackett, Mrs. Claude Rucker, Mrs. Eunice East, Miss Ann Loring, Mrs. Margaret B. Denison, Mrs. Beatrice Woodford, Miss Marjorie Fairbanks, Mrs. Marie Downey Werner, Mrs. E. McKenzie, Miss Sue Hess, Miss Mary E. Timm, Miss Ruth Bowman, Capt. J. M. Lowery, Messrs. C. G. Senesey, S. W. Lacy and T. G. Fraser.

Among those present were the director, Col. R. G. Cholmeley-Jones, the assistant directors and chiefs of the bureau.

Fancy Skating Team On Coliseum Bill The Central Coliseum is staging an extra attraction this week in securing the McClellands, Mildred and James, who present a novelty roller skating number brightened by the snappy comedy of Happy Brigs. The McClellands are winners of many fancy skating championships and will put on the entire list of roller stunts every afternoon and night at the local rink.

Mountain Fire Raging. Asheville, N. C., Nov. 22.—Forest fires, plainly visible from the city are raging in many sections of the mountains near here.

At once place the fires are near the great water shed of 17,000 acres owned by the city.

PRESBYTERIANS JOIN IN ANTI-TOBACCO WAR

New York, Nov. 21.—The Presbyterian Church, with 2,500,000 communicants, has joined actively in the anti-tobacco crusade.

This fact is asserted in a letter written by the Rev. Dr. Charles Scanlon, general secretary of the board of temperance and moral welfare of the Presbyterian Church, addressed to the editor of the "Tobacco World."

"For years," he said, "we have been making war on the use of tobacco and especially cigarettes, and we intend to continue to do so with increased vigor. No one authorized to speak for this board has ever taken any attitude of compromise, evasion, or silence on this question."

"We intend to press this battle along all lines both at home and abroad, because the overwhelming testimony of science, law, morality, education, religion and experience is that tobacco in any form is filthy, harmful and repulsive."

Whisky Lures Lem On; Now His $140 Is Missing Lemuel Devers, 414 G street northeast, yesterday received a practical warning against patronizing bootleggers.

Devers, in company with John D. phy, 722 Fifth street northeast, and the police he went to the house, which is the home of Zip Carroll, to buy whisky. A negro in soldier's uniform and another man, whose name, Devers said, is "Hippy," were present.

While in the house Devers asserted he was robbed of $140. Furthermore, he did not get the liquor.

New Importations of Japanese and Oriental Goods of Every Description

Are arriving daily, including Art and China Ware, Silk Kimonos, Boudoir Slippers, Bronzes, Art Novelties, Perfumes, &c. We have the largest display in the city.

Moderate Prices

Free to You.

Free Souvenirs while they last, of the carved Jade Lucky Monkey to all visitors to our Beautiful Bazaar.

Oriental Bazaar

1205 Pa. Ave. N.W.

Dependable Merchandise Sold Cheaper Than Elsewhere

Bendheim's
DEPT. STORE

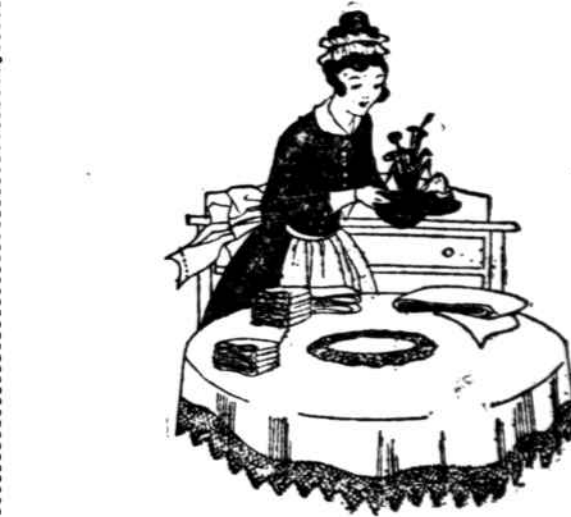

543-543½ 8th St. S. E.
Next to the Corner of G Street.

Store Hours:
Open 9 A. M.
Close 6 P. M.
Saturday Close 10 P. M.

Thanksgiving Suggestions!

Table Linens and Lace Curtains at greatly reduced prices. No Thanksgiving dinner is complete without new fresh linens on the table. No house complete to greet your Thanksgiving guests without your lace curtains in order. Don't miss this sale. You can supply your needs here and save at least 25% on your purchases.

Mercerized Table Cloths

- Size 54x56, hemstitched, each.....$1.25
- Size 58x72, hemstitched, each.....$2.25
- Size 58x90, hemstitched, each.....$2.50
- Size 68x90, hemstitched, each.....$3.00
- Mercerized Round Table Cloths, made with edges scalloped. Size 54 inches in diameter. Each, $1.25.
- Hemstitched Mercerized Table Sets, one cloth 56x68, with half dozen 16-inch napkins. Price, per set, $2.75.
- One cloth, size 56x70, with half dozen 16-inch napkins. Price, per set, $2.98.
- Mercerized Damask Napkins, neat narrow hems.
- Size 18x18 at.....$2.19 per dozen
- Size 20x20 at.....$2.50 per dozen
- Bleached Mercerized Table Damask. These are all full bleached; beautiful floral designs.
- 58-inch Bleached Table Damask.....75c and 79c yard
- 64-inch Bleached Table Damask.....89c yard
- 72-inch Bleached Table Damask.....$1.00 yard
- 64-inch Extra Heavy Part Linen Table Damask, $1.25 yard

- These are the Nottingham Lace, some very fine mesh. Others loose mesh, but every pair a bargain.
- 2 1/4 yards long, figured center, 75c pair.
- 2 1/2 yards long, figured center, wide border, $1.98 pair.
- 3 yards long, figured center, wide border, $2.75 pair.
- 3 yards long, figured center, wide border, $2.39 pair.
- 3 yards long, figured center, wide border, $2.98 pair.
- 2 1/2 yards long, plain center, wide border, $2.98 pair.
- 3 yards long, plain center, extra wide border, $4.00 pair.
- 2 1/2 yards long, figured center, fine mesh net, extra heavy, wide border, $4.50 pair.
- 2 1/2 yards long, plain center, fine net, heavy deep border, $4.50 pair.
- 3 yards long, figured and plain centers, fine net, deep heavy border, $4.98 pair.

OUTFITTERS TO WOMEN

White's
919 F St. N.W.

THE STORE WHERE YOU WILL EVENTUALLY SHOP

Announcing for Tomorrow
A Very Special Sale of
Fur-Trimmed Coats

AMONG these are quite a few built on entirely original and distinctly pleasing lines. Some are very liberally fur-trimmed—others with just the collar in fur—but all of them in dashing models with a touch of elegance.

Candidly, they're worth considerably more than we're asking—

$49.50

The Upstairs Shop
WM. WEINBLATT, Inc.
2nd FLOOR, 503 7th St. N. W.
OVER PEOPLE'S DRUG STORE

A Sale Worth Waiting For —TOMORROW—
Another New Shipment Just Received
FUR-TRIMMED COATS
$13.75 to $35
Actual Values to $50

Coats of rich Velours, Meltons, Chinchilla Cloth, Burella Cloth, Silvertones, with broad collars of Opossum and Hudson Seal; some of self-materials, box pleated or gathered backs with all-around belts, full lined with heavy quality Satin, Shanghai Silk and Italian Cloth. A few have fur cuffs to match.

Colors are Black, Brown, Gray, Blue, Plum, Mahogany, Reindeer and Taupe. All sizes.

Serge Dresses
—fashioned of the finest grade serge, trimmed with embroidery and beads.
$13.75

Satin Dresses
—dresses for street and afternoon wear, in a wide range of styles and colors. All sizes.
$19.75

Velvet and Velveteen Dresses $16.50
Rich Heavy Quality Material. Specially Priced for Tomorrow

Tricotine Dresses — — — $19.75